WESTBURY, NY -- Corporate Coffee Systems LLC announced that it has acquired three office coffee service companies, further solidifying its position as a workplace refreshment leader in the greater New York City metropolitan area. Financial terms were not disclosed.

CCS has acquired the assets of Bronx-based King Coffee Services Inc. and Bross Food Enterprises Inc. from their respective owners, Terry Adelstein and Cathe and Bob Bross. The Westbury, NY-based OCS provider also purchased Manhattan's Bevex Beverages from Howard Kirshenberg.

The combined acquisitions represent more than 750 new customers, CCS reported. Several key personnel from the acquired companies will remain on board with CCS.

"As a premier coffee and beverage provider for 25 years, we are seeking to strategically expand our loyal customer base and further strengthen our business in the important metro New York market," said CSS president and chief executive David Henchel. "In addition, these synergistic acquisitions provide the opportunity to tap into the knowledge and experience of these high-quality operators, fueling internal growth."
